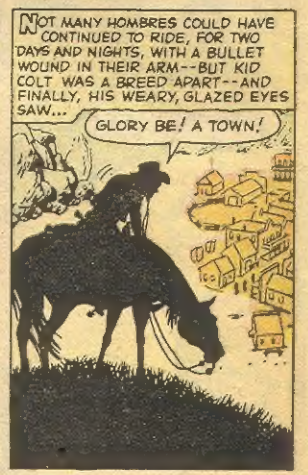
AND WHAT OF THE HUNTED MAN? WHAT OF KID COLT, OUTLAW?
LUCKY FOR ME I WAS NEAR THE BORDER WHEN THEY WINGED MY ARM! IT'S JUST A FLESH WOUND--BUT I NEED A DOC TO STITCH IT UP!



NOT MANY HOMBRES COULD HAVE CONTINUED TO RIDE, FOR TWO DAYS AND NIGHTS, WITH A BULLET WOUND IN THEIR ARM--BUT KID COLT WAS A BREED APART--AND FINALLY, HIS WEARY, GLAZED EYES SAW...
GLORY BE! A TOWN!

HOWDY, STRANGER! SAY, YOU BEEN SHOT! YUH MUSTA BEEN RIDIN' FER MILES! COME OFF THAT HOSS AND LET THE DOC HAVE A LOOK AT YUH!

RANCH HAND'S LUCK

AS usual, on Thursday morning, the informal gathering of the older ranchers of Cowhorn, Nevada, took place in the little park just opposite the Cattle Exchange and the railroad station. Thursday morning was the day to come into town and shop, make bank deposits or withdraw money, and consult the latest posted cattle prices of prime head. Once business had been done with, and the wives of the ranchers had been safely seen into the various stores lining Main Street, for the week's shopping, the older men withdrew to the park to quench their thirst at the bubbling fountain in its center. Here, too, at the drop of a ten-gallon hat, disputes bearing upon any subject dear to the heart of the West might be heard at any hour.

On this particular Thursday, the subject was ranch hands. Every man of the nine sitting on the weather-worn benches had a bunkhouse crew. Every one of the bunkhouse crews had a foreman. And under each foreman worked a group of ranch hands. Some called them cowpokes, some waddies, some rannyhans, according to their various inclination. And one and all had their opinions on the virtues and drawbacks of the average ranch hand.

"You take your average waddy," rancher Tim Meltzer said, rolling a quirly in the open palm of one hand. He touched a match to it. "You've got to know him, got to be able to really judge him, when he's hired. The average waddy's got no more talent for most things than I have for jumping over the moon. He's got to be taught his skills . . . and even then he needs a constant eye on him."

An appreciative rumble came from Bart Brisbane who owned the spread next to Meltzer's.

"I second that," Brisbane said. "I never saw the ranch hand who was good for anything until you told him what to do three times over. It takes years to drag work out of any of 'em." He nodded vigorously. "The trick is to get one who looks neat, to begin with. That means he takes pride in his work. The next thing is to be sure he knows at least something about everything connected with a spread's chores. Or, if he doesn't, be sure he's had some experience on at least a ranch or two, for a couple of years. After that, you might be satisfied!"

A few more heads nodded sagely.

Then Doc Springer spoke up. Doc was the physician for Cowhorn, a veterinarian on the side and the county medical officer to boot. He owned a small spread east of town. A large, burly man, with heavy mustaches, he possessed eyes that could fairly twinkle with humor.

"What you gents are saying, is," he began, "that the average waddy has to be a thunderin' all-round genius before you'd even think of hiring him. You'd like him to be a dapper-dandy in the bargain!"

"I want the best for my weekly wage scale," Brisbane said. "Greenbacks are dollars, and I expect a solid dollar's worth of work for every dollar I pay in wages."

Doc shook his head.

"Yes, but . . ." he continued, "every man has his worth, and you're asking too much of anybody to expect them to know everything well. Just remember, when our ancestors came out here from way back East, they knew little or nothing about ranching. Some of 'em were farmers, some of 'em were tradesmen, some of 'em had been clerks. But each and every one . . . with a very few exceptions, of course . . . made his good marks in one way or another. Now I maintain that there's a spark of gold in every man, and that if you only know how to spot it, you'll get mighty useful work out of him."

Tim Meltzer snorted.

"Doc, I don't believe that for a minute," he said.

Doc waggled his head and smiled.

"Tim," he said, "I'll guarantee to take the worst-lookin' man in town and make something out of him. I'll guarantee . . ."

He paused. Tim Meltzer had turned his head and was looking away, down the street. The others followed his gaze.

It was an odd sight upon which their eyes rested. Crossing the railroad tracks, on the south road into town, was a man on a horse. He was dressed in a worn workshirt and tattered blue jeans. On his head was a battered ten-gallon hat. He sat amiably astride the saddle-less horse, and he gazed even more amiably ahead of him.

"Never seen him before,"

Get Rid of UGLY PIMPLES this new easy way!

Amazing new medicated lotion developed by a doctor works wonders by clearing up complexion in one week or less!

DON'T let a bad complexion ruin romance, spoil your fun, cause you to be embarrassed, shy or ashamed. If you suffer from acne, the common external cause of pimples among young people, try this wonderfully effective medicated lotion that was developed by a practicing physician to clear up his own teen ager's complexion after other methods had failed. It has produced astonishing results for many thousands of others. It is GUARANTEED to help you or it won't cost you a single cent!

Doesn't Show On Your Face

Keraplex is a skin-colored lotion (NOT a greasy salve or ointment!) that is quickly absorbed by the skin and gets right down in the pores where its healing and antiseptic ingredients can go to work. After you have applied it, there is no trace left on the surface. In fact, it makes a perfect powder base for girls and a refreshing after shaving lotion for men . . . actually improves the tone of the skin! It is pleasant and easy to use — leaving your skin soft, clean and fragrant.

Boys and girls—If you have pimples on your shoulders or back, you can avoid embarrassment when they are exposed to view. For Keraplex keeps your shoulders, arms, back and chest wonderfully free from pimples—without soiling clothes, without messiness or greasiness!

Works in SIX Out of SEVEN Cases!

An analysis of RESULTS taken from actual case histories proves that Keraplex is successful in clearing up six of every seven cases of externally caused blackheads and pimples. It tones up the complexion generally, giving it a healthy, radiant glow.

Try This New Method Without Risking A Penny!

Keraplex is GUARANTEED to clear up your skin troubles or there will be NO COST to you whatsoever. If yours happens to be the ONE extra-stubborn case out of seven which Keraplex cannot help in one short week, it will cost you nothing to have tried it. Keraplex is sent to you with that simple, positive GUARANTEE!

Brisbane said.

"Probably some stranger passin' through," another of the ranchers said. He chuckled. "Looks like he didn't work too often . . . probably gets a job drivin' a chuck-wagon now and again, at roundup time, if then."

Tim Meltzer turned to Doc Springer.

"All right, there's your chance," he said. "I've never seen a worse excuse for a ranch hand this side of the Brattler River. Prove your claim."

Doc looked at him for only an instant, then he nodded. He stood up and beckoned to the man on horseback as he passed.

"Just a minute, stranger," he said.

The man guided his mount toward the group of ranchers with a firm pressure of his knees against the horse's side. He nodded.

"Want a job?" Doc Springer asked.

"Don't mind . . . gotta eat," the other said. "Name's Luke Hasso."

"Can you wrangle cattle, Luke?" Doc asked.

"Nope."

"Much ranch experience?"

"Nope."

"Okay," Doc said with a mysterious smile. "You're hired. My ranch is ten miles out on the east road. Drop in tonight and you've got a job."

"You're plumb loco, Doc," Tim Meltzer said.

"We'll see," Doc said.

The talk turned to the approaching rodeo, but Doc kept his eyes on the wayfaring stranger as he rode on into the town toward the east road.

"Thinkin' how you'll develop him into a foreman, Doc?" Meltzer asked, smiling.

"There's other useful things around a ranch that a man can be," Doc said. "Now, as you were sayin' about the rodeo, Bart . . ."

On the day of the rodeo, Tim Meltzer was down with a cold. The rest of his bunkhouse crew went into town, to participate for the honor of the Double M ranch, which Meltzer owned. When they left, he asked them to have Doc Springer drop in on the way home to treat his cold.

It was near five o'clock when the doctor arrived. He seemed cheerful and chipper. He took Tim's temperature, examined his throat, wagged his head once or twice and then gave him a spoonful of a dark brown medicine.

"My specialty," the doctor said, briskly. "It never fails. By the way, not to depress a patient, but your bunkhouse crew got left. Not one of 'em took a blue or red ribbon."

Tim Meltzer blew his nose loudly.

"Well, I never expected they would," he said, and chuckled. "Any more than I thought yours would, Doc, you old galoot!"

"That so?" Doc asked, smiling. "But I'm bringing home one blue ribbon and two red ones!"

Tim Meltzer's jaw dropped.

"Whaaaaaat?" he burst out, eyes popping. "Who won them for you?"

"Luke Hasso."

"Luke Hasso!" Tim exploded amid sneezes. "Why, he's no good as a ranch hand. He practically said so, himself!"

Doc Springer smiled tolerantly.

"I told you there is a bit of pure gold in every man, Tim," he said. "You just have to know where to look for it. And that usually means keeping your eyes and ears open, sometimes your heart. All you other galoots probably hooted at Luke because he looked lazy and down at the heel. Actually, he's just easy-goin' and a maverick . . . any man's entitled to be. But I noticed that he rode without a saddle. To you that just meant he was too poor to afford one. To me, it meant also that he'd had to train himself to keep his seat on a horse, no matter what. And he can! He's not only a prime bronco buster, but he also stayed long enough on some real tough bull and bronco flesh this afternoon to bring home prizes!"
